ISRAELI PRESS OPPOSES JOHNSON

JERUSALEM, (CJN) — Israel's Foreign Ministry confirmed that Dr. Joseph Johnson, special envoy of the PCC, has informed Israel of his plan for dealing with the problem of the Arab refugees.

The proposals, Dr. Johnson explained, were his own, and have not yet been adopted by the (PCC) Palestine Conciliation Commission. The spokesman added that Israel will publish its reply "at the proper time."

Although the spokesman declined to reveal details of Dr. Johnson's proposals, they are understood to call for the appointment of a U.N. administrator and staff to conduct a referendum among the refugees to determine whether they wish to return to Israel or be resettled either in Arab states or elsewhere.

TURNED DOWN

Official sources pointed out that the proposals had already been discussed and rejected by the Cabinet and the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Security Committee, and that Israel's position had been made clear both to Dr. Johnson and the PCC constituent nations, France, Turkey and the U.S.

REFERENDUM UNACCEPTABLE

The Government it is understood considers completely unacceptable the idea of a referendum. It rejects Dr. Johnson's basic assumption that the refugees would be permitted to make a free choice whether to return or be resettled elsewhere on the grounds that the Arab states, in order to pursue their aim of destroying Israel, would coerce the refugees into opting for return.

It is also felt that appointment of another U.N. arm to serve as a go-between with the Arabs would only cause grave complications and further set back chances for an eventual settlement.

Diplomatic sources indicated that the final U.S. position on the proposals was not yet clear.

REFUGEE PROPOSALS

On the subject of Dr. Johnson's new proposals, Ha'aretz, Israel's foremost newspaper, declared:

"The road from a realistic appreciation of a problem and solution to a complete lack of realism is a long one; but Dr. Johnson has managed to traverse it in the relatively short period of one year. In the report he submitted to the UN General Assembly a year ago, Dr. Johnson stated that the Arab refugee problem could be solved only within the framework of a general settlement of Israel-Arab relations. Judging from his new plan, he has managed to forget this wise injunction. As a result, the basis for any sort of a realistic solution has disappeared."

Youth Fills Polish Synagogues

Warsaw, (JCNS) — Services were held on Yom Kippur in about thirty synagogues throughout Poland and almost everywhere the Services were very well attended.

Most of the synagogues in Warsaw, Lodz and Cracow were crowded. Young people and quite a number of children were to be seen in some synagogues.

According to the Chairman of the Jewish religious organisation in Poland, Mr. Frankiel, the synagogue he attended at Lodz was filled to capacity. In Cracow, services were held in the ancient Ramu Temple and in several auxiliary halls.

There were also crowded services at Wroclaw (formerly Breslau) and in Lignice, which is the headquarters town of the Red Army stationed in Poland.

Several hundred Polish Jews who have returned from Russia have settled in new homes in Lignice.

ISRAEL REPRESENTED AT ECUMENICAL COUNCIL

JERUSALEM, (JCNS) — Israel received an invitation to send representatives to the opening ceremonies of the Ecumenical Council which opened in the Vatican yesterday, October 11, a spokesman for the Israeli Ministry of Foreign Affairs announced.

Four delegates are attending. The Israeli Ambassador to Rome, Mr. Maurice Fischer, the Director of Christian Affairs at the Ministry of Religious Affairs, Dr. Saul Kolbi, and two others whose names will be announced later.

GOODWILL GESTURE

ROME, (JCNS) — The Vatican has addressed invitations to all governments having diplomatic missions accredited to the Holy Sea or the Italian Republic, including the State of Israel, to attend the opening ceremonies of the Ecumenical Council at St. Peter's. The invitation specified that women will not be allowed to attend among the delegates.

Pope John's decision to invite Israel is interpreted here as a gesture of goodwill since no diplomatic relations exist between the Vatican and Israel, nor even a formal recognition of the Jewish State.

NEW LEGHORN SYNAGOGUE CONSECRATED

LEGHORN, Italy (JCNS) — A Catholic priest, representing the Bishop of Leghorn, attended a synagogue service for the first time in the history of Italian Jewry. This was on Sunday to consecrate the new Sephardi synagogue built on the site of the baroque synagogue which was destroyed by bombing during the Second World War.

Members of the Italian Government and of Parliament, Leghorn's civil and military authorities and representatives of Italy's 22 Jewish communities participated in the impressive and moving ceremony.

After the Sefarim carried by communal leaders were taken seven times around the synagogue and placed in the Ark, Dr. Sergio Piperno, President of the Union of Italian Jewish communities, and Professor Mario Cabib, President of the Leghorn community, greeted the congregation and the many guests present.

Signor Nicola Badaloni, the Communist mayor of Leghorn, praised the Jewish contribution to the town's artistic, cultural, scientific and commercial growth during the centuries, and acknowledged that "religious faith was among men's deepest feelings".

Signor Giovanni Giraudo brought the greetings of the Italian Government. He stressed his Government's determination to fight any resurgence of neo-fascism.

The Dean of the Hebrew University, Italian-born Professor Giulio Racah, read a message from President Ben-Zvi which said: "I am happy to learn that Italy's oldest Sephardi community in Leghorn is inaugurating its new synagogue. This will symbolise not only the attachment of the Jewish community to the eternal values of Judaism, but also the community's ties with Israel and the Jewish people."

The synagogue, which is the work of the Jewish architect Angelo di Castro, who said he sought his inspiration from the Tabernacle built by Moses in the Desert, will accommodate all Leghorn's 1,000 Jews. It has cost $500,000 of which $350,000 were contributed by the Italian Government as war damage reparations, and the rest by the American Joint Distribution Committee and the local community.

The first time that Jews came to Leghorn was at the beginning of the 16th century, thanks to a decree in 1593 by Ferdinand the First, of the Florentine Medici family, which encouraged a large number of Jewish refugees from Spain and Portugal to settle there. Prominent philosophers and physicians enriched the Leghorn community, and were often consulted by the Italian rulers.

New Threat To Russia: Black Market In Bibles

Poor, old Rabbi Yehuda Leib Levine of Moscow probably was not less astounded by the visit of the foreign newspapermen on the eve of Yom Kippur than were the correspondents who listened to him. Levine is one of the very few rabbis known to be practicing in the Soviet Union. According to official figures, the three-million Jews of Russia have less than ten rabbis in office.

Dr. Levine's greatness — being chief rabbi — was thrust upon him, as Shakespeare would have said. He never dreamed of becoming chief rabbi of Russian Jewry. Elections for this office were never held. However, no matter how much the Soviet government is opposed to religion, it cherishes authority. It likes to deal with a "chief rabbi", with a head of the Greek Orthodox Church, with the leader of the Moslem ulemas. Every authoritarian regime needs a representative through whom it gives orders to its subjects. No one should envy Rabbi Levine, an old, pious teacher who, following the demise of Rabbi Schleifer, suddenly was brought into the limelight by the government as the chief spiritual leader of Russian Jewry.

Levine is a pious, venerable man, one of the old-time rabbis. According to the NEW YORK TIMES reporter who interviewed him, Rabbi Levine spoke in Yiddish. Shabad of the TIMES, who speaks this language well, noted that the purpose of Chief Rabbi Levine's press interview on the eve of Yom Kippur had been "his concern" for the "black market" which made the synagogue its center.

What, in essence, is this black market? According to Chief Rabbi Levine (or the secret police ghost-writer who dictated the statement to the rabbi), foreign visitors leave prayer books, prayer shawls and other religious objects in the synagogue. Again, as far as the rabbi is concerned, these bibles and prayer books, of which "there are plenty in Russia for those who really need them", become a "dangerous item" of merchandising on the black market.

It is interesting to note that this statement by Moscow's chief rabbi was preceded by an earlier dispatch from the Soviet Union to the effect that the Moslem mosques also have become, according to Russian authorities, "centers of black market".

Of course Jews are not consoled by the similar persecution of their fellow Moslems in the Soviet Union. Quite to the contrary. It seems that ALL the religions in the Russian Empire are facing some kind of trouble. If the world power which launched the first Sputnik fears a black market in bibles, prayer shawls or koran's — then something is brewing behind the Iron Curtain.

GERMAN BARONESS TO WED SON OF WASHINGTON RABBI

WASHINGTON, (JCNS)— The engagement has been announced between a Washington rabbi's son and the daughter of a German baron.

Mr. Roger W. Gerstenfeld, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Norman Gerstenfeld, is to marry Miss Walburga von Mecklenburg, daughter of Baron and Baroness George von Mecklenburg, of Hohenschmark, Holstein, Germany.

Rabbi Gerstenfeld is spiritual leader of Washington's Reform Congregation. His son is a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

SS RALLY IN GERMANY

Bad Winsheim, (JCNS) — About 1,000 former members of Hitler's Waffen S.S. met at Bad Winsheim in West Germany, behind closed doors on Sunday before staging a "silent march" to the city's war memorial.

This was the fifth post-war rally to be held by the Nazi S.S. It was organised by ex-members of the Sixth Mountain Division of Hitler's storm-troopers.

ARABS CAMPAIGN IN LATIN AMERICA

Rio de Janeiro (JCNS) — A three-man delegation of Palestine Arab refugees has arrived here to launch a propaganda campaign against Israel.

Israeli "massacres" had forced the Arabs to flee from Israel, members of the delegation claimed at a Press conference.

B'NAI B'RITH RALLYING FOR CONFERENCE

The recent decision of the Board of Governors of District No. 1, B'nai B'rith, approving the petition for the establishment of a District Grand Lodge in Eastern Canada, will be a major item on the agenda of the forthcoming Conference of the Eastern Canadian Council, B'nai B'rith, meeting in Ottawa from November 2nd to the 5th. B'nai B'rith leaders and members throughout Eastern Canada have been impressed by the speed, unanimity and warm friendship with which District No. 1 responded to the Canadian B'nai B'rith appeal.

As April 1st, 1964, has been fixed as the date on which the new Canadian District is to come into operation, a great deal of action will be in evidence during the next year and a half preparing for the eventful day. A new structure will be created. A constitution and By-laws will be developed. A new headquarters will be established. Staff will be expanded. The Ottawa Conference will deal with these.

An interesting program is shaping up for the Conference. It will get under way with an Oneg Shabbat on Friday evening, November 2nd. A Luncheon has been arranged for the chapter delegates at which the guest speaker will be Miss Judy La Marsh, M.P. for Niagara Falls. A detailed account of the activities of the International Council of B'nai B'rith will be presented by Saul Joftes of Washington, D.C.

The first plenary session will take place on Sunday morning. The agenda includes the election of the nominees from Canada on the Board of Governors of District No. 1 for next year. The Canadians now serving on the Board include Dr. Alexander Lipson, Toronto, First Vice-President, E. M. Sprackman, Toronto, David S. Katz, Montreal and Irving Meshwork, Montreal. Past-Presidents of the District from Canada who are ex-officio members of the District Board of Governors are: J. Irving Oelbaum, Maxwell S. Lewis, Q.C., and Isadore Markus of Toronto and Samuel Moskovitch, Q.C., and Horace Cohen, O.B.E. of Montreal.

The guest speaker at Sunday's Luncheon will be S. Arthur Glixon of New York, President of District No. 1. An active participant in the Conference will be Mrs. Myer J. Wolf of Boston, President of the B'nai B'rith Women, District No. 1.

The Grand Banquet will follow on Sunday evening. The guest speaker will be Rabbi Stuart E. Rosenberg of Beth Tzedec Synagogue, Toronto.

MOSLEY IN BUFFALO

We are puzzled to account for the actions of Hersch Adlerstein of Buffalo at the recent appearance of Oswald Mosley in that city. Mr. Adlerstein could bear it no longer when Sir Oswald calmly dismissed charges of antisemitism against himself avowing he had never been anything so vulgar as an antisemite or Jew-baiter. Alderstein could not restrain himself any longer at this, and standing up in his place hurled at Mosley the charge that he was an antisemite and this could be easily proven.

We could understand this expression of exasperation on the part of Alderstein and certainly can agree and sympathize with his sentiments. However, Mr. Alderstein is no private individual; he is on the staff of the Anti-Defamation League — its director for the north-west New York State region, and in fact presented his official ADL calling card to the English fascist after his outburst of heckling.

There is to us something incongruous in an official of the Anti-Defamation League engaging in a public word-battle with this discredited, pathetic figure of Mosley. We fully acknowledge the possibility of provocation, but, after all do we not find agencies like the ADL frequently urging the Jewish public to show forbearance and urging against giving in to the temptation of provocation? How does this fit with the experience of Mr. Adlerstein (one of our own Montreal boys, incidentally)? Can an agency demand discipline of its constituency which it is not prepared to require of its own staff?

There is a further question arising from this verbal altercation. Does this mean that the ADL wants to challenge Mosley and engage in argument with him? If so, it should announce this as its policy. Up to now we thought it wanted a different technique pursued.

NAZIS IN ARGENTINA

CATHOLICS AND ANTISEMITISM

A Catholic priest, Father Dr. Carlos Cuchetti, one of Argentina's most enlightened and broadminded priests — and perhaps a unique example in the whole country — came out against the inertia of the Catholic hierarchy in face of the growing antisemitism in the country.

In a special interview with our JCNS correspondent, Father Cuchetti admitted frankly that the Catholic ecclesiastical hierarchy had not taken any concrete stand nor any measures to prevent or block antisemitic outbursts by priests in Catholic institutions and colleges. Dr. Cuchetti is the man who, five years ago was given the green light by the late Pope Pius XII to go ahead with the creation of the Jewish-Christian Brotherhood Association in Argentina, in spite of the opposition of the official clergy. He is one of the three Presidents of the Association.

To the question whether it was true that Church pulpits were being frequently used for antisemitic propaganda, Father Cuchetti said:

"It cannot be said that Church pulpits are chairs of antisemitism, but some priests use them in order to disseminate ideas and opinions from which religious antisemitism is evident. For instance, Father Virgilio Filippo, a priest at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, at the Belgrano district of Buenos Aires, frequently uses the pulpit for antisemitism attacks. Father Julio Meinville also does so at the House of Spiritual Retreat at Independencia Street, where he is indoctrinating young students with antisemitic ideas. Generally speaking, Catholic priests have respect for the Jewish religion, but no spiritually good predisposition toward Jews."

Your JCNS correspondent then asked Father Cuchetti if it was true that Catholic colleges in Argentina were the bulwarks of the anti-Jewish propaganda, especially at "El Salvador", "Champagnat' and "Lasalle' colleges.

Father Cuchetti replied:

"The danger of antisemitism is latent in these colleges, as well as the danger of extreme nationalism, especially at "El Salvador" and "Champagnat". It was proved once and again that many Tacuara members were or had been pupils at these colleges. It is for me evident that the ecclesiastical hierarchy has done nothing in order to redress this evil, because it was not convinced of the truthfulness of these facts."

Then Father Cuchetti said that some priests, foremost among them Father Meinvielle, had personal bonds with Tacuara and act as spiritual leaders of the movement.

All these facts are well-known to the Jewish community in Argentina and its leaders who consider that, though unofficially, the role of the Catholic Church throughout the country in fostering antisemitism was overwhelming.

Tacuara, Mazorca or the "G.R.N." (Guardia Restauradora Nacionalista) and their like would have been comparatively inoffensive without the plain support of some priests and Catholic institutions, which are acting in the shadow of the stubborn passivity of the Catholic hierarchy.

AN ANNIVERSARY —

RESTITUTION AND ATONEMENT

The Bulletin published by the West German embassy in Ottawa notes:

In full awareness that no fleet of ships, no power stations, no oil pipelines can atone for the loss of human life, Israel and the Federal Republic observed the 10th anniversary of their Treaty of Restitution last month, as reported by the Canadian Jewish News.

The international press quoted Dr. Felix E. Shinnar, head of the Israeli purchasing mission in Germany, and Nahum Shamir, director general of the Shilumim (reparations) Corporation in Tel Aviv, as crediting the government of the free part of Germany with having faithfully carried out its commitment to pay reparations as partial atonement for Nazi persecution.

For the Germans, Chancellor Adenauer recalled that on September 27, 1951, "I declared before the Bundestag on behalf of the Government that the great majority of the German people were conscious of the immeasurable suffering caused during the time of National Socialism. . . .

"While it is true that these crimes never had the consent of the German people, they were nevertheless committed by Germans. Thus we declared ourselves ready to pay, insofar as possible, full restitution.

"The members of the parliament rose as one man from their seats and gave silent expression to their sympathy for the victims of Nazi persecution. . . .

"It is with great satisfaction that I can state today that the Federal Republic has fulfilled the obligations it took upon itself ten years ago."

The report by the Israeli experts noted that the first shipment of goods sent as reparations reached Haifa on August 10, 1953, and the concluding shipment is due next March 10.

The Chancellor expressed the hope that during the past decade a basis has been formed for "improving relations between the peoples of Germany and Israel."

A sensational development, however, occurred last week in Bonn when the architect of the Germany-Israel deal, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany, sharply criticized the West German Government for its failure to pass supplementary legislation to indemnify "hundreds of thousands" of Jewish victims of Nazism.

Dr. Goldmann said that not even a draft had been prepared for new legislation despite three years of intermittent negotiations. The Conference has been seeking an expansion of the existing compensation law to meet additional claims.

Under a protocol signed in 1952, the West German Government undertook to compensate Jewish victims of the Nazi regime for material damages. Up to June 30 of this year, the Government had paid out almost $3,000,000,000 to meet about 2,860,000 claims.

THEIR FACTS "UNDISPUTED"

CALL CJN EDITOR'S COLUMN "UNFAIR"

Dear Editor:

The "Commentary" appearing on the front page of your newspaper on September 21st, under the signature of your editor, Mr. J. Nurenberger, refers, among other things, to the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

We find this "Commentary" extremely objectionable in tone and content. A telephone call or visit to our office would have corrected the serious misstatements of fact contained in the article. As to the attack on Dr. Abraham L. Feinberg, this is shocking and reprehensible. The Rabbi, we feel, needs no defense. Please allow us to state a few more undisputed facts.

First: The meeting in Massey Hall on September 16th was organized by The Canadian Campaign For Nuclear Disarmament; The Canadian Committee of 100; The Church Peace Mission; Fellowship of Reconciliation; The First Unitarian Church; Society of Friends (Peace Group); The Voice of Women; Women's International League For Peace and Freedom and the World Federalists of Canada.

Second: Not one of these nine organizations follows the "Soviet Peace line". Each of us have publicly protested our opposition to all nuclear tests. Our groups have demonstrated before the Soviet Embassy as well as the United States Embassy on numerous occcasions. To state that the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament follows the "Soviet Peace line" is without any basis in fact and nothing short of slander.

Mr. Nurenberger seems ironic in describing us as "peace lovers". It is popular in some quarters to disparage the word "peace" as an unsavory word. We are astonished that a newspaper voicing ideals of Judaism should regard love of peace with disparagement. The issue of war and peace is the most important issue of our times. This probably accounts for the sympathetic reporting which appeared in all three of Toronto's daily newspapers in informing their readers about the wonderful and inspiring meeting at Massey Hall.

Your editor, Mr. Nurenberger, asks Jews to "examine their conscience". The Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament suggests that Jews who suffered so very much in the last war, have as much reason as any others in Canada to strive with might for peace and against the health hazards caused by nuclear testing.

Permit us to draw your attention to the fact that by slandering us you are also attacking our leadership which includes prominent Canadians such as our Honourary President, the Hon. Mr. Justice Thorson (President of the Exchequer Court of Canada), our President the Very Rev. James S. Thomson (former Moderator of the United Church of Canada), Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, Dr. Hugh L. Keenlyside, Dr. Brock Chisholm, Dr. Ivan C. Rand, Dr. Claude Bissell, Dr. Franc Joubin and Mr. Saul Hayes.

Reader Detects A "Golden Error"

Dear Editor:

Regarding an article in The Canadian Jewish News by Harry Golden, entitled, "Putting God Back in the Classroom", I regret to say someone has erred — Harry Golden, to begin with, and, due to a lack of research, your newspaper as well.

His beautiful poem that he attributes to Tagare is Shelly's Adonais. How can anyone mistake it?

To my knowledge, this poem is studied in high school and I wonder how many of us really got the message that Golden presumes we would get from it.

I would just like to add this bit of information for Mr. Golden who feels this particular poem could replace religious teaching. Shelly was known as an atheist, this particular poem is pantheistic and, further, it is a love lament to Keats who had recently died. Does Mr. Golden really feel this is the answer?

High School Ideas On Social Service

Dear Editor:

I am enclosing the following ideas of the Forest Hill Junior High School — ideas on social service; some of the thoughts expressed might be of value to our leaders and members of our community:

1. We believe that all people — no matter their religion, colour or nationality — belong equally to the brotherhood of mankind.

2. We believe that we should be willing to share our time and our money or belongings, whenever we can help others by doing so.

3. We believe we should do this, not out of pity, but out of charity, for the true meaning of charity is love. To love your neighbour is to realize that he is a human being like yourself to be respected not pitied; to realize that he feels the same needs that you do.

4. Because charity is an expression of our respect and concern for other people, we refuse to have anything to do with 'gimmicks' no matter how much money a gimmick might raise — because the money has been given for the wrong reason and without understanding.

5. We believe that a gift is only a gift when it is given freely with no other motive than the desire to help.

BETWEEN THE LINES

The following appeared on a postcard which came from a family in Vienna to their relatives in New York:

Dear Cousins: We cannot understand why the American press has raised such a furor about what is happening in Vienna. It's all propaganda. Everything here is fine; everybody is happy. We don't want to live anywhere else — unless perhaps with dear Aunt Beatrice."

Of course, the censor could not guess that Aunt Beatrice was dead.

FAMILIAR TERRITORY

Joseph Chamberlain, renowned British statesman, was discussing with Dr. Theodore Herzl, founder of the Zionist movement, the feasibility of a Jewish state in East Africa. Dr. Herzl was not impressed. Finally Chamberlain pointed to a section in Egypt which Great Britain would be ready to cede to the Jewish people.

"Egypt?" queried Dr. Herzl. "My people would definitely not hear of it. We have already been there."

ENOUGH'S ENOUGH

After the morning service in the synagogue, Mendel Kaplan was talking to his friends about his brilliant son-in-law.

"He is the shrewdest man you ever saw. Only the other day he sold a piece of property and realized one million dollars profit."

"You mean to say a whole million?" asked an astonished listener.

"And fifteen thousand isn't enough?" asked Kaplan.

CANADIAN PANORAMA

By Mordecai Hirshenshon

CANADIAN B.B. "CUTS LOOSE"

On the Sunday before Rosh Hashanah at a meeting in New York City of the executive board of B'nai B'rith's District (Grand Lodge) number One a momentous decision was taken. The members agreed to permit Eastern Canadian B'nai B'rith to "cut loose" from its parent body. The "secession" or rather "independence" will be effective in 1964. The meeting was a dramatic one and there were some tears shed at this cutting of the umbilical cord — a move long anticipated and debated but which is now actually in sight. It is expected, incidentally, that the last president of the present District No. 1 (Eastern Canada, New York State and the New England States) will be Toronto's Dr. Alex Lipson.

Torontonians among these "Fathers of Confederation"— to extend a roughly comparative term that will be understood by Canadians — were Harry Pachter, Isadore Markus, J. Irving Oelbaum, Dr. Alex Lipson and Saul Berlin. To extend the parallel further — the 1964 date will be exactly a century after the Charlotteown Conference of 1864, an assembly which was the first to plan the all-Canadian union that came three years later.

B'NAI B'RITH OR B'nai B'rith

And while we're on the subject of this important fraternal order, why, we wonder, does the official spelling seem to require a capital "N" and "R" as in B'Nai B'Rith. This might give the impression that in Hebrew there are two words such as 'Nai and 'Rith,, when these have no separate identity or existence without the initial B which is not a prefix but an orgagnic part of both words. The spelling B'nai B'rith with small "n" and "r" would be not only less confusing to the reader but more truly reflective of the original Hebrew.

AN ANGLICAN ROSH HASHANAH?

During Rosh Hashanah in the Mussaf service of the second day there is a passage encompassing the 150th Psalm known to Jews in the familiar Hebrew words:

"Halleluyah, Hallelu eyl
b'kadsho. . .
halleluhu b'gvurothav,
halleluhu k'rov
gu'lo . . . halleluhu b'teka
shofar, etc."

Those Jews who turned in on CBC radio at the finish of the holiday shortly after sun-down could have heard the same text in English, sung as part of a modern Anglican "folk mass" and intoned in cantillation by the Trinity College School Boys' Choir:

"Praise ye the Lord .....
Praise him according to his excellent greatness.
Praise him with the sound of the trumpet . . . praise him with stringed instruments . . . etc."

"JEHUDA ELZET" DIES

The death was reported in Jerusalem of a man whose career encompassed four very different places of residence: Poland, Canada, South Africa and Israel. The late Rabbi Jehuda-Leyb Zlotnick (born 1888) spent ten years in Canada from the early 20's to the early 1930's living in Montreal where he was employed by the Zionist Organization of Canada as its educational director. It is symptomatic incidentally, of the immigrant nature of the Canadian Jewish community in that relatively recent period that the ZOC would engage a newcomer from Poland and a rabbi with a traditionally long beard for this key post — a man incidentally, who had to learn English while on the job.

After Canada Rabbi Zlotnick lived in Johannesburg for 17 years where he was director of the city's Hebrew schools. In 1949 he moved to Israel where he adopted the name of Avida.

SERMON FOR SUCCOT

FESTIVAL OF JOY

"And ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God."

The joyous festival of Sukkot has always been regarded with special love. So popular, indeed, was it in ancient times, that in the Talmud it is frequently referred to as "HaChag" - "'The' Festival". And no wonder; for after the awe and solemnity of Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur, Sukkot brought a more homely and relaxed atmosphere; its symbols introduced a note of excitement, and the building of the Succah itself, to this day, is accompanied by laughter and glee.

Teachers have repeatedly drawn attention to the fact that just this happy harvest-season in the Land of Israel should have been chosen as the time for the festival recalling the wandering of our forefathers in the wilderness at the dawn of our nationhood. Just at this time of the year, when the Jew might understandably have felt a certain sense of elation and strength and well-being, when his barns were full and he felt secure and successful — this was the time when he was enjoined to recall his humble origins, to subdue pride and selfishness, and to acknowledge his dependence upon God. "Ye shall dwell in Tabernacles seven days ... In order that your generations may know that I caused the children of Israel to dwell in tabernacles when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt."

Succot is concerned first with the Jewish people; it refers to Jewish national history; and the Succah becomes the symbol of Jewish nationhood — frail, exposed to the winds and storms, but firm and indestructible. But the festival contains also a salutory lesson for the individual — a lesson whose significance, human nature being what it is, never fades. The Succah is the reminder that ultimately our lives and fates are in the care of Providence. In all its frailty it is a yearly protest against our cocksureness, against that dangerous habit of thinking that "my strength and the power of my hands have gotten me all my wealth;" and as we look through the leaves and branches, that make its flimsy roof, to the sky above, the truth is borne in upon us that our real strength is in our faith — faith in the Guider of the destinies of all men. The Jew of former times, who often passed a bleak and hard life materially, whose regular home was often little better than a Succah all the year round, nevertheless found peace and hope, and even joy, because he stood firmly on a basis of faith.

That is the element which is regrettably missing from the lives of so many today; and here is the spiritual problem of our times. In the process of winning self-sufficiency and gaining mastery over the instruments of living, modern man has lost his grasp of the meaning of life: and it is the great paradox of the twentieth century that in a universe crowded with technological advances, men are desperately groping after some element of security.

The Succah calls upon each one to make a great decision - to give up trying to find the goal, the be-all and end-all of life, the centre of existence, within one's own self, and to put the accent on trying to "make sense" of existence in terms of faith. "It is a tree of life to those who lay hold of it.

THE NEW ENEMY

The trouble with any war is that neither of the participants can afford to stand still. The housewife maintains her constant war against the butcher fearing that if her campaign is not stepped up from time to time there won't be enough meats for the plates.

But the war between the tenants and the landlords has taken a turn for the worse — for the tenants. Having weathered the campaign of the housing shortage, the tenant thought he was home free. But no.

The landlord has come up with a new weapon, the apartment house computer. According to a headquarters communique, there are 2,000 apartment house units in New York City now directly administered by an electronic computer. The computer automatically adds up rent costs and posts the name of the family that is in arrears. It keeps track of when the apartment was last painted, the number and ferocity of tenant complaints and, given enough time, the computer will probably serve eviction notices, too.

We have learned no weapon is ever ultimate. An electronic computer cannot lie, stall or bluff. ~~One~~ loose screw and some tenants will have receipts for rent they never paid.

On the other hand a computer can't hear a parade of tenants much less care what kind of banners they carry. It is hard to threaten a computer with a bow and arrow, too.

My suggestion to tenants: folks, you are losing the war. You will have to find an underground computer shelter soon!

ALL SYNAGOGUES IN RUSSIA FULL ON HIGH HOLYDAYS

MOSCOW, (JCNS)—Synagogues in Moscow were crowded Yom Kippur and on both day of Rosh Hashana and, according to reports, there were sizeable services in the synagogues of Kiev, Leningrad, Odessa and other main cities.

Moscow's main synagogue, with a seating capacity of about 600, was over-filled. Many had to stand in the passage and outside.

An eye-witness who attended the service estimated that there were more than a thousand persons, "mostly elderly" attending the services.

There were also crowded services at the two casual synagogues, both wooden buildings, in the suburbs of the Soviet capital.

According to a statement by Chief Rabbi, Lehuda Leib Levin, there were, apart from the main synagogues, services in about a hundred temporary synagogues with number of attendants estimated at well over half a million.

CONFLICTING LOYALTIES

Several Orthodox rabbis and one Conservative rabbi shared with me their "halachic" misgivings about Soblen's deportation from Israel. They stressed that Jewish law affords the fugitive from justice the same protection provided by a writ of "habeas corpus." However, these were off the record observations of a "purely scholarly, theoretical nature," as one of the rabbis told me, and "definitely not for quotation."

This spectre of conflicting loyalties has been haunting American Jewry for many decades. One need not be a trained psychologist to reach the conclusion that the constant and vociferous denial of any clash or conflict between American interests and Jewish concerns springs from doubt and insecurity. It is clearly a cast of "protesting too much" — in the manner of protest which aroused Shakespeare's suspicions.

A BRANDEIS' PRONUNCIAMENTO

Those who protest too much invariably start out by quoting from Justice Louis D. Brandeis' essay "The Jewish Problem", published in 1915.

"Let no American imagine that Zionism is inconsistent with patriotism," Brandies wrote. "Multiple loyalties are objectionable only if they are inconsistent. A man is a better citizen of the United States for being also a loyal citizen of his state, and of his city; for being loyal to his family and to his profession... There is no inconsistency between loyalty to America and loyalty to Jewry... Indeed, loyalty to America demands rather that each American Jew become a Zionist."

All American Presidents and their administrations have put on record their sympathy with Zionism and, since 1948, with the State of Israel. But these tributes to Jewish ideals and pioneering were, and are, just tributes and not declarations of principles meant to guide U.S. foreign policies in the Middle East. The men in charge of the U.S. State Department are "Realpolitiker" (as "they" interpret realistic politics). They are about as sentimental, or attuned to sentiments and ideals, as an I.B.M. Machine. As a result, American Jews and the State Department have engaged in a constant tug of war. American Jews have steadfastly maintained that the "Realpolitik" of the State Department, consistent and unchanging throughout the decades of changing administrations, is untrue to the American Idea. The State Department has taken this criticism and censure in its stride — together with the criticism and censure of other minority groups — while following its accustomed path and pursuing what it considers "Realpolitik."

A CASE HISTORY

Although there is no conflict between an American Jew's loyalty to the U.S. and loyalty to the Jewish people — as there is no clash between a man's love for his mother and his love for his wife — in actual life situation this "axiom of non-conflicting loyalties" is more often than not invalid. Notwithstanding the logic of Brandeis's demonstration of the non-conflicting nature of multiple loyalties, and especially of the dual ("not" divided) loyalty of American Zionists, in real life choices which try men's souls seem to be inevitable.

As an illustration of what a life will do to such noble principles, one might cite the case and predicament of Mr. Philip M. Klutznick, who now serves on the U.S. Delegation to the U.N. with the rank of Ambassador. During his terms of office as President of B'nai B'rith, Mr. Klutznick was to the very forefront of those who carried the American Jewish protests against the State Department's "Realpolitik" to Washington. Last April, however, Mr. Klutznick, as a member of the U.S. Delegation to the U.N., backed the U.N. Security Council Resolution which "condemned Israeli military action in breach of the General Armistice Agreement whether or not undertaken by way of retaliation." Significantly, one of the strongest and most courageous condemnations of Israel's censure was issued by Mr. Label Katz, Mr. Klutznick's successor in the B'nai B'rith Presidential chair.

Although Mr. Klutznick's defenders presented a good case for his submission to the discipline of the delegation over which Mr. Stevenson presides, the rank and file of American Jews feel that Mr. Klutznick went

HUMAN RELATIONS

Beatings by Husband

DR. ROSE N. FRANZBLAU

QUESTION. What is your opinion of a man whose hold on his wife has been through fear? Physical and mental abuse are his weapons. In this couple's frequent arguments, if the wife answers his verbal abuse, she is attacked physically.

Incidentally, his attacks are the result of many incidents which have happened and which he has stored inside until his current outburst. The wife has learned not to answer him, to keep from being physically attacked. But then she is subject to hours of continuous verbal abuse. After these attacks are over the husband expects his sexual life to continue as usual and as if nothing had occurred.

ANSWER: The wife of the man whose hold on her is through fear probably wants to be held that way.

Actually, it is not the fear of the attack that keeps her obedient and submissive to him. It is the fear of not being attacked. To the wife, this means not being wanted or not being important enough to have all of the husband's emotions center around her. Only when the husband gets angry enough to explode does she feel loved enough by him.

The wife, although acting like a much maligned and martyred female, stays in control through this kind of a set-up. She expresses her aggressiveness and her drive to be in charge by inciting her husband to riot in her own quiet way. For both, the fighting followed by loving, represents a pattern of punishment accepted in anticipation of a reward to follow.

His physical violence often makes such a husband feel more manly and it sometimes happens that only through this preliminary experience can he perform sexually as a male. In the case of such a woman, it may mean that her inappropriate aggressiveness must be beaten down before she can emerge and function as a female.

Thus, for some couples beating or fighting represents a kind of sexual foreplay.

It is the husband, in this case, who needs the reassurance that he is loved. After he misbehaves, he wants his wife, like the mother of a naughty child, to take him into her arms and tell him that nothing can get in the way of her love for him.

Although the wife may not have created this insecurity, she has evidently played into it by her quiet nagging or disapproving silence which, to him, has been much more critical than any words could be.

When a criticism or an objection is answered promptly, it has no time to stew around inside the person, and can be dealt with in a quiet and mature way. This approach ought to be tried.

Discontent should be voiced promptly instead of keeping her husband in a state of agitating suspense caused by silence. If however, the wife is afraid to express her feelings or feels that she cannot do so adequately because of her insecurity or guilt then it might be well for her to talk it out with a marriage counsellor.

Seeing it as her problem and recognizing her inability to handle it might remove much of the onus for the difficulty from her husband. Then he will be freer to act like a mature adult, who doesn't have to create scenes to be noticed, or go into a tantrum in order to get what he wants.

Hadassah Women Rally For Bonds

An enthusiastic group of Presidents and Bond Chairmen of all Toronto Hadassah Chapters gathered at the home of Mrs. Gabriel Alter. Over all Hadassah Bond Chairman on Tuesday evening, October 2, to formulate plans for a concentrated program of activities on behalf of Israel Bonds.

Guest speaker of the evening was John R. Devor, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Toronto Bond Organization who gave a graphic portrayal of the tremendous advancement being made in Israel to make the Negev once again a flourishing land capable of absorbing the thousands of new immigrant families now flooding into Israel.

Kits were distributed to Chapter Bond Chairman, who have set a goal for their participation in the current Bond drive — TO MAKE EVERY HADASSAH MEMBER A BOND OWNER IN HER OWN RIGHT.

Pictured here are Mrs. Gabriel Alter, Hadassah Bond Chairman, and her Co-Chairman, Mrs. Samuel Norris, holding up a map of the Negev. Each Hadassah Bond purchased will have the privilege of adding a tree on the barren map, symbolic of the efforts to MAKE THE NEGEV GREEN WITH ISRAEL BONDS.

HADASSAH BAZAAR

The world's most bizarre Bazaar — a one-day welfare whirlwind of contests, raffles, auction sales and shopping bargains — will strike Torontonians for the 37th time when Toronto Hadassah's Annual Bazaar and Exposition is held this year on Wednesday, October 31, at the C.N.E.'s Automotive Building.

More than 3,200 women in Hadassah's 72 chapters will combine their efforts to stage this largest, one-day annual bazaar in the world. Last year's record attendance was close to 50,000 people.

The money raised is spent entirely in Canada to buy supplies to support Hadassah's three outstanding projects: Nahalal (Canadian Hadassah's Agricultural School for boys and girls in Israel); the Canadian Hadassah Hospital at the port of Eilat; and to help maintain medical services in Israel.

To jam their way into the huge, six-acre Automotive Building at the C.N.E., and get a chance to bid for the incredible bargains inside, visitors in past years have begun lining up more than an hour before the scheduled 9 a.m. opening time. The 50 cent admission gives all those attending a chance to win valuable door prizes that this year will include a sleek 1963 Rambler American 4 Door Sedan with automatic transmission and a luxurious sable scarf.

This year's Bazaar Chairman, Mrs. Morris Kaufman, and Vice-Chairman Mrs. John Bergman have announced a brand new feature for the bazaar this year — a cooking school for men at 6.30 p.m., featuring the latest barbecuing techniques.

beyond the call of duty in not dissociating himself from the U.N. resolution co-sponsored by the United States. In his home city of Chicago, there was keen disappointment voiced in the editorial columns of the Chicago Jewish weekly 'Sentinel', at Mr. Klutznick's choice of one loyalty. There was no need, Mr. Fishbein, the editor wrote, as a personal friend of Mr. Klutznick to sacrifice loyalty to Israel to the "Realpolitik" (which may well prove to be "real" tolly) of the State Department.

DATELINE: HAMILTON

AS I SEE IT

By PAUL HANOVER

Its too bad Frank Richter and I can't get together. He keeps talking about a second car for my wife, and I keep pitching for a second wife for my car! Frank and Molly recently returned from a European jaunt which he'd won from his bosses. The holiday was a prize but still it wound up costing him the best part of his savings account because of his decision to take a ten-day side trip to Israel. Other recent Israeli tourists were Betty and Murray Minden. This might very well explain Betty's fervor as co-chairman of the Women's Division of the current Israeli Bond campaign.

On their way to Israel are the Goldbursts, who, too late, remembered their best deal: instead of the usual travelers cheques, they should have purchased Israel bonds. No service charge is involved and they are just as good as ready cash.

The Tiger Cats must be in worse shape than even those recent losses shown. I got into the car the other morning and found my Tiger Cat sticker wilted right off the windshield! . . . Attention, Les Roffe! Have you heard? The 1963 models are now on display at your local automobile showrooms. October is 1963-model-month, except for those aforementioned Ti-Cats, they seem to be showing us their 1960 model. (Ed. note; Let's hope this joke is still topical since this column was written Oct. 5th,

Sam Yanover is taking time out from his Hamilton luggage store to train for real estate selling. Listen, everyone should have a hobby! . . . Illness has forced Ben Silvert to discontinue his affairs. The casualty rate of King East quickens! . . . Attention Les Roefe! Your blinker light is still on! . . . It isn't hard for me to figure out why Don Carr is limping around these days with his foot in a cast. He's in the vending machine business. . . . Sorry to hear of the passing of Lou Sobel. We'd had so many pleasant dealings with that white-maned lion on James St. in our early days of personality-type commercials. Our sympathies also go to the Barrs family on the passing of their father, Solomon. This veteran had the distinction of being a charter member of both the Beth Jacob Synagoguge and the Grand Order of Israel.

There's No Place like Home Dept.: In spite of all his business, social, and community service attachments in Toronto, Stan Sobel still chose Hamilton for the High Holidays. . . What with Sylvia Miller's great success with her Italian fashion imports, I can't figure why her boys don't choose pizza instead of yummy selling. I was quite impressed by her home salon. However, I refused a tour of the rest of the house, in case I'd be tempted to some sort of "overhead" gag. Hold on now, you're way ahead of me!

Its not my line of writing, otherwise I'd need an asbestos typewriter to tell all the story of one house of worship's problems with its reserved seat plan. . . Harry Wald sent me a bushel of apples. His answer to medicare. Come on now! You get it! An apple a day keeps the doctor away, which is for naught if your doctor happens to like apples too. I always say. What do you always say? . . .

Well, you'll have to admit that the way those Buffalo Bils have been playing there's no danger of Cookie Gilchrist getting homesick for the Argoes. And even Jack Koskie would have to admit that, when Cookie finishes playing for the Buffalo Bills, he can come back and play for some of his Hamilton and Toronto ones . . . It didn't take Dr. Max Nathan long to learn the facts of Jewish life in Hamilton. I see where he was welcomed as a new member by both Adas Israel and Beth Jacob.

I'd like to thank Percy King for that copy of the roster wherein the complete executive and player line-up of every Canadian team is listed. But I'd surely like to know how the author arrived at the order of listing: the book starts with B.C. Lions, and winds up with Argoes!

A FORM OF RELAXATION

By RUTHIE

There are some girls who look forward to going to shool (synagogue) in order to relax — and daven (pray) on the side. They can hardly wait from one Yom-Tov (holiday) to another so that they can tear each other apart. And where else but in a shool where so many people from all walks of life congregate under one roof?

Last Monday, Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), was as good as any other. Let me hasten to say that I do not, for one moment, minimize the seriousness of the day. Yom Kippur is the holiest day of the year. At that time, pious and non-pious alike pray to God to be "inscribed in the Book of Life" and ask for forgiveness of all sins — past and future. It is a time for meditation.

But how many times, during a twenty-four-hour period, can one repent? So if you remain in shool long enough, you may observe various forms of relaxation.

Because one fasts on Yom Kippur, one of the highlights of any conversation is food. You can hear from one,

"Take a look at my youngster. She's chewing like mad. She eats more on Yom Kippur than during the whole year."

From another, "I made sandwiches to last the kids all day, so I won't have to run home. It's only eleven-thirty and they're all gone. You'd think a famine was around the corner. Any other day, I can't make them swallow a thing."

Then someone else says, "You should see the size of the honey cake I brought. I figure the men can have something with which to break their fast before going home. After all, they're working so hard."

By that time, if the saliva doesn't churn in your mouth, you're immune to food.

You also find the kind who, during meditation, thinks,

"Hm-m! Look at all the mink stoles. The women have no place else to wear them, so they come to shool to show off. It's hot and sticky, but they clutch them around their throats afraid, maybe, someone will walk off with them."

At the same time, she wishes she had one too — bigger and better.

Then there are some females who continually wave across the room, or hold out their hands rigidly or, some way or other, gesticulate widly. And all because they hope you notice their diamonds which you can't avoid seeing. The size of electric bulbs, they almost knock you cold.

If you're among these, you feel smug, one of the herd. If not, you still feel content — after all, you don't take it with you. Either way, there's no malice in your heart.

And if there should be a wee shade of covetousness in your soul, you can be certain that saying alkhet (forgiveness for the sin) is not far off.

DAWN

a novel by ELIE WIESEL the author of NIGHT

CHAPTER III

Hour after hour Gad spoke to me of the blue nights of Palestine, of their calm and serene beauty. You walk out in the evening with a woman, you tell her that she is beautiful and you love her, and twenty centuries hear what you are saying. But for the English the night holds no beauty. For them every night opens and shuts like a tomb. Every night two, three, a dozen soldiers are swallowed up by the darkness and never seen again.

Then Gad told me the part he expected to play. I was to give up everything and go with him to join the struggle. The Movement needed fresh recruits and reinforcements. It needed young men who were willing to offer it their future. The sum of their futures would be the freedom of Israel, the future of Palestine.

It was the first time that I had heard of any of these things. My parents had not been Zionists. To me Zion was a sacred ideal, a Messianic hope, a prayer, a heartbeat, but not a place on the map or a political slogan, a cause for which men killed and died.

Gad's stories were utterly fascinating. I saw in him a prince of Jewish history, a legendary messenger sent by fate to awaken my imagination, to tell the people whose past was now their religion: Come, come; the future is waiting for you with open arms. From now on you will no longer be humiliated, persecuted, or even pitied. You will not be strangers encamped in an age and a place that are not yours. Come, brothers, come!

Gad stopped talking and went to look out the window at the approaching dawn. The shadows melted away and a pale, prematurely weary light the color of stagnant water invaded my small room.

"I accept your offer," I said.

I said it so softly that Gad seemed not to hear. He remained standing by the window and after a moment of silence turned around to say:

"Here is the dawn. In our land it is very different. Here the dawn is gray; in Palestine it is red like fire."

"I accept, Gad," I repeated.

"I heard you," he said, with a smile the color of the Paris dawn. "You'll be leaving in three weeks."

The autumn breeze blowing in through the window made me shiver. Three weeks, I reflected, before I plunge into the unknown. Perhaps my shiver was caused not so much by the breeze as by his reflection. I believe that even then unconsciously I knew that at the end of the road I was to travel with Gad, a man was waiting, a man who would be called upon to kill another man, myself.

Radio Jerusalem ... Last-minute news flashes. David ben Moshe's execution will take place at dawn tomorrow. The High Commissioner has issued an appeal for calm. Curfew at nine o'clock. No one will be allowed on the streets. I repeat, no one will be allowed on the streets. The army has orders to shoot at sight ...

The announcer's voice betrayed his emotion. As he said the name David ben Moshe there must have been tears in his eyes.

All over the world the young Jewish fighter was the hero of the day. All the wartime resistance movements of Europe held rallies in front of the British embassies; the chief rabbis of the capital cities sent a joint petition to His Majesty the King. Their telegram—with some thirty signatures at the bottom—ran: "Do not hang a young man whose only crime is fidelity to his ideal." A Jewish delegation was received at the White House and the President promised to intercede. That day the heart of humanity was one with that of David ben Moshe.

It was eight o'clock in the evening and completely dark. Gad switched on the light. Outside the child was still crying.

"The dirty dogs," said Gad; "they're going to hang him."

His face and hands were red and perspiring. He paced up and down the room, lighting one cigarette after another, only to throw each one away.

"They're going to hang him," he repeated. "The bastards!"

The news broadcast came to an end and a program of choral singing followed. I started to turn the radio off but Gad held me back.

"It's a quarter past eight," he said. "See if you can get our station."

I was too nervous to turn the dial.

"I'll find it," said Gad.

The broadcast had just begun. The announcer was a girl with a resonant, grave voice familiar to every one of us. Every evening at this hour men, women, and children paused in their work or play to listen to the vibrant, mysterious voice which always began with the same eight words: You are listening to the Voice of Freedom ....

The Jews of Palestine loved this girl or young woman without knowing who she was. The English would have given anything to lay hands upon her. In their eyes she was as dangerous as the Old Man; she too was a part of the Legend. Only a very few people, no more than five, knew her identity, and Gad and I were among them. Her name was Ilana; she and Gad were in love and I was a friend to both of them. Their love was an essential part of my life. I needed to know that there was such a thing as love and that it brought smiles and joy in its wake.

You are listening to the Voice of Freedom, Ilana repeated.

Gad's dark face quivered. He was bent almost double over the radio, as if he wanted to touch with his hands and eyes the clear, deeply moving voice of Ilana, which tonight was his voice and mine and that of the whole country.

DEATH OF RABBI PEDATZUR

JERUSALEM, (JCNS) — The death occurred last week in Tel Aviv of Rabbi Moshe Pedatzur, the former Mayor of Safed and the town's communal rabbi.

Rabbi Pedatzur, who was born in Safed 73 years ago, played an important part in organising the defence of Safed during Israel's war of independence.

He leaves a widow, two daughters and six sons, one of whom is the News Editor of Achdut Avodah's daily paper "Lamerchav."

Labor Zionists For Bonds

"The Labour Zionist Movement has traditionally been in the forefront of Zionist endeavour on behalf of Israel. This has been evident in all fund efforts, including as well the Israel Bond Drive, which the Movement recognizes as the chief source available to the government of Israel for the millions of dollars required for development of the country and integration of the mass immigration now in process," said Kalmen Berger, chairman of the Movement in Toronto, at a meeting of the Labour Zionist Bond Committee last week.

The Labour Zionist goal in Toronto this year is $150,000, and a good start has already been made toward achieving it, said Mr. Berger. During the High Holy Day Services conducted in its own centre, $35,000 Israel Bonds were sold following an appeal by Leo J. Moss, Executive Director of the Farband Labour Zionist Order. This was an increase of some 20% over the results of last year at the Rosh Hashana appeal.

The Pioneer Women's (Labour Zionist) Organization, an important part of the Israel Bond Drive women's division, will highlight its vigorous effort with a special function in November.

Special Bond sale activities are to follow both these events, with Louis Gotkind heading up the Farband division, and Louise Cornblum and Freda Harrison the Pioneer Women effort. There is every confidence that the Labour Zionist Movement will surpass its goal for Israel Bonds this year.

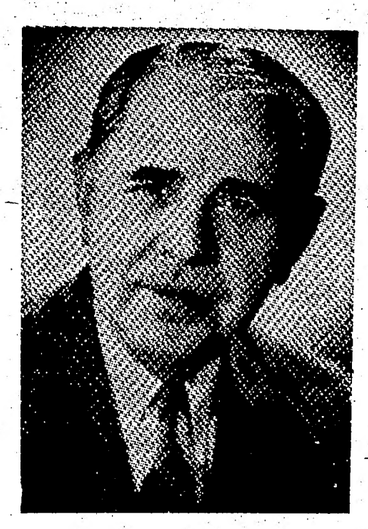
It all started in a little store — a long time ago...



Mr. Samuel Weinstein...

In 1960 Mr. Samuel Weinstein was chosen "Knight at the Golden Pencil" by the Food Industry Association of Canada . . . for his outstanding achievements. A GROVE OF 1000 TREES was planted in his honour in the Canada Forest, Ein Kerem, Jerusalem . . .

Mrs. Sarah Weinstein...

and since than Canadian

- Food retail history has been made by these quiet - hard working two people...

In little more than fifty furiously fast years, the life and careers of Sam and Sarah Weinstein capsules a wonderful story of achievement in the community and progress in the food business. "Way back in 1908, when Toronto was growing out of the nickname "Muddy York", Mrs. Sarah Weinstein, then with a family of 3 youngsters, tended a small grocery store on Terauley Street. The store has long since vanished, giving way to an Eaton's parking lot. Her husband, Samuel, worked diligently as a salesman for a wholesale food company by day, and took over the store in the evenings.

From a humble beginning, Sam and Sarah Weinstein's small store grew to a chain of nine "over-the-counter" type stores, after World War 1, known as Red Star Stores.

"The Customer Comes First" was our motto, Mr. Weinstein recalls, "Our previous business experience taught us that people wanted variety and value and all our efforts were geared in this direction. We always encouraged suggestions from our customers".

The Food business fascinated two of the Weinstein children. After their schooling, Maurice and Leon decided to make it their career. Leon, who was actually born in the back of a grocery store, is now President of Power Supermarkets. Maurice, Although recently retired, continues to take an active interest in Power's growth. The spirit of "close family tie" is one that has been transmitted to the growing family of "Power Employees".

Thirty years ago the Red Star Stores gave way to the First Power Market at Danforth and Coxwell. And today, people in the food industry readily acknowledge that Power has helped set the pace in modern food trends.

And now... after all those years the golden rule of Sam & Sarahs little store makes a big supermarket chain a Big Success...
